A Message from the President

Dear Alumnus,

Mansfield recognized its first group of alumni in 1866. It was then that 15 students were graduated from the Mansfield Classical Seminary. Since that historical event, thousands of people have earned membership in Mansfield's Alumni Association.

This publication contains information about 20,000 graduates of our school. The profile of the group is interesting. There are people from the class of 1908 who earned a diploma from the Mansfield State Normal School.

There are those who earned their degrees during the 65 years that Mansfield was known as Mansfield State Teachers College. Many of them are teachers or retired from the profession of teaching.

There are those who earned their degrees since 1960, when Mansfield began offering a variety of degree programs. Their occupations reflect the diversity of the subjects they studied.

Explore the directory and you'll find our alumni reside in 49 of the 50 United States. Some live in Canada, Central and South America, Europe, Asia and Africa.

But no matter what their occupation or where they reside, they are important to Mansfield University. Allan Clark, writing as president of Clarkson University, noted "a university finds its strength in its faculty, its hope in its students and its pride in its alumni." The collection of people who are identified in this publication reflect the character, the values and the spirit of Mansfield. The strengths of the institution are embodied in each of you.

This directory will help you identify people with whom you need to communicate. It may also help "jog" your memory and cause you to reminisce. It may help you prepare for a class reunion.

Whenever you open these pages, you will be reminded of Mansfield. Perhaps you will be motivated to return to your campus.

When you do, you will be welcome.

Sincerely,

Rod C. Kelchner
President

A Brief History of the University

Mansfield University can trace its history from 1857 when the Mansfield Classical Seminary opened with 105 students. Several years later, in 1862, the institution was designated a State Normal School for the training of teachers by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. By the turn of the century enrollment had grown to over 400 students.

In 1927 Mansfield changed again and became the first school in Pennsylvania to be designated a State Teachers College, authorized by the State Board of Education to grant Bachelor of Science degrees in elementary and secondary education, music, and home economics. In 1960 the word Teachers was dropped from the title and Mansfield became Mansfield State College, a multi-purpose institution offering a broad range of curricula. Finally, on July 1, 1983, Mansfield University came into being as a unit of the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education.

Today the 185 acre campus, with 36 buildings and 175 faculty members, serves approximately 3200 undergraduate and graduate students. Presently the university awards bachelor's, master's and associate degrees to students from 19 states and 41 foreign countries.
